

authors

origin of the articles, translators

Joan F. Mira is a writer, anthropologist and professor of Greek and Classical Culture at Jaume I University (Castelló). His article appeared in L'Espill 20. Translation by Andrew Gray ||

Josep Fontana is a historian and emeritus professor at the Universitat Pompeu Fabra (Barcelona). His article appeared in L'Espill 20. Translation by Andrew Gray ||

Josep Maria Lloró is a historian and literary critic (Barcelona). His article appeared in Transversal 27. Translation by Julie Wark ||

Rosa Congost is a historian and professor at the University of Girona. Her article appeared in L'Espill 18. Translation by Andrew Spence ||

Ferran Sáez Mateu is an essayist and the director of the Institut d'Estudis Polítics of the Universitat Ramon Llull (Barcelona). His article appeared in Idees 23-24. Translation by J. Roda-Bruce ||

Sebastià Serrano is an essayist and a professor of General Linguistics at the University of Barcelona. His article appeared in Mètode 39. Translation by Andrew Spence ||

Manuel Castells is emeritus professor of Sociology at the University of California at Berkeley, and senior professor at the Internet Interdisciplinary Institute at the Universitat Oberta de Catalunya (Barcelona). His article appeared in Idees 21. Translation by Andrew Spence ||

Yolanda Aixelà is a lecturer in Anthropology at the University of Alacant. Her article appeared in L'Espill 17. Translation by Andrew Gray ||

Isidor Marí is a sociolinguist and teaches Catalan Language at the Universitat Oberta de Catalunya (Barcelona). First printing of this essay. Translation by Julie Wark ||

Gil-Manuel Hernández i Martí is a lecturer of Sociology at the University of València. His article appeared in El Contemporani 30. Translation by J. Roda-Bruce ||

M. Carme Junyent is a lecturer of General Linguistics at the University of Barcelona. Her article appeared in Els Marges 73. Translation by J. Roda Bruce ||

Enric Pujol is a historian and journalist. He now works at the Generalitat de Catalunya. His article appeared in El Contemporani 29. Translation by A. Thomas Stacey ||

Imma Merino is a film critic (Barcelona). Her article appeared in L'Avenç 306. Translation by A. Thomas Stacey ||

Margarida Casacuberta teaches Catalan Literature at the University of Girona. Her article appeared in L'Avenç 301. Translation by A. Thomas Stacey ||

Joan Melià teaches Catalan Language and Sociolinguistics at the Universitat de les Illes Balears (Mallorca). His review appeared in Lluc 846. Translation by Julie Wark ||

Gustau Muñoz is an essayist and editor at the University of Valencia. His review appeared in Caràcters 28. Translation by Julie Wark ||

Jesús Navarro teaches Physics at the University of Valencia. His review appeared in L'Espill 19. Translation by Julie Wark ||

Enric Balaguer is a lecturer of Catalan Literature at the University of Alacant. His review appeared in Caràcters 33. Translation by Julie Wark ||

Maria Josep Escrivà is a poet (Gandia). Her review appeared in Caràcters 28. Translation by Julie Wark ||

Manuel Guerrero, writer, is coordinator of the cultural center κκτυ (Culture, Research, Technology, Universals) in Barcelona. He has been curator of the exhibition "L'univers obert d'Antoni Tàpies" (Lleida, 2003) ||